CONDUCTOR ASHER FISCH LEADS BSO IN MUSIC BY SCHUMANN, PROKOFIEV, AND AVNER DORMAN JANUARY 29-31

PROGRAM FEATURES JULIAN RACHLIN AS SOLOIST IN PROKOFIEV’S VIOLIN CONCERTO NO. 2

TICKETS FOR THE 2014-15 BSO SEASON, PRICED FROM $30 TO $145, ARE AVAILABLE FOR PURCHASE THROUGH WWW.BSO.ORG OR BY CALLING 888-266-1200

Performances to take place Thursday, January 29 and Saturday, January 31 at 8 p.m., and Friday, January 30 at 1:30 p.m., with an Open Rehearsal Thursday, January 29, at 10:30 a.m.

Israeli conductor Asher Fisch makes his BSO subscription series debut Thursday, January 29-Saturday, January 31, with three performances of music by Schumann, Prokofiev, and Israel born composer Avner Dorman. The program begins with Dorman’s Astrolatry, a 2012 work inspired by the stars and constellations. These will be the first BSO performances of any music by Dorman, who is a former Tanglewood Music Center Composition Fellow. Following the new work, the orchestra is joined by Lithuanian violinist Julian Rachlin for Prokofiev’s Violin Concerto No. 2, a 1930s masterpiece with a breathtakingly beautiful slow movement, and the program concludes with Schumann’s Symphony No. 1, Spring.

PROGRAM DETAILS

Avner Dorman’s Astrolatry is inspired by the previously citybound composer’s newfound love for stargazing, which developed after spending time in rural Pennsylvania. About the work, Dorman has written: “While I was writing Astrolatry, I spent more time outside of large cities than ever before in my life. More than anything else, I found myself in awe of nature in a way I never felt before. Lightning, rain, winds, and the night sky were so much larger and more impressive than they are in the city; and for the first time in my life, I could truly understand why ancient people worshiped the stars." The composer wrote Astrolatry for the Alabama Symphony Orchestra, which premiered it in March 2011.

Prokofiev's Violin Concerto No. 2, written in 1935, is a melodious later work with audible influences from Russian and Spanish folk music. The diverse stylistic influences are not surprising given the circumstances of its composition: "The number of places in which I wrote the Concerto shows the kind of nomadic concert-tour life I led then," Prokofiev wrote. "The main theme of the first movement was written in Paris, the first theme of the second movement at Voronezh [in western Russia], the orchestration was finished in Baku [in present-day Azerbaijan], and the premiere was given in Madrid." Although the concerto frequently calls for brilliant virtuosity from the soloist, the prevailing mood is one of lyricism and beauty.

Composed in 1841, the year after Schumann was at long last able to marry the virtuoso pianist Clara Wieck, the Symphony No. 1 displays the composer's earliest significant effort at full-scale orchestration. A work of energy and lyricism, the Spring Symphony owes its existence to Clara, who encouraged Schumann to write orchestral music—he had to this point written mostly music for piano and for voice—and who was the composer's lifelong muse. Inspired by the triumphant end to his arduous 5-year courtship of her, Schumann completed the work in less than a month.

EDUCATIONAL INITIATIVES AT SYMPHONY HALL
As part of the BSO’s ongoing initiative to enhance its patrons’ awareness and knowledge of the music being performed, the Boston Symphony Orchestra continues to offer a variety of adult education initiatives at Symphony Hall for the 2014-15 season.

UnderScore Fridays is a uniquely formatted concert series. At all Friday-evening performances, members of the BSO introduce the concerts from the stage. Selected concerts also include comments from the stage by guest artists appearing in the program. Tickets for UnderScore Fridays range from $32 to $130.

“BSO 101: Are You Listening?” returns in 2014-15. In this popular Wednesday-evening series, BSO Director of Program Publications Marc Mandel is joined by members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra for presentations designed to enhance one’s listening abilities and general appreciation of music by focusing on works from the BSO’s repertoire. No prior musical training, or attendance at any previous session, is required, since each session is self-contained. “BSO: 101: An Insider’s View” also returns in 2014-15, offering three Tuesday-evening sessions focusing on behind-the-scenes activities at Symphony Hall with BSO musicians and administrative staff, including player perspectives on performing with the orchestra. All “BSO 101” sessions take place from 5:30-6:45 p.m. at Symphony Hall, and each is followed by a reception. Though the “BSO 101” sessions are free, please note that there is a nominal charge for the reception. The schedule of BSO 101 events can be viewed here.

The popular Friday Preview Talks continue to take place from 12:15-12:45 p.m. before each Friday-afternoon subscription concert; the Symphony Hall doors open at 11:30am. Given by BSO Director of Program Publications Marc Mandel, Assistant Director of Program Publications Robert Kirzinger, and occasional guest speakers, these informative half-hour talks incorporate recorded examples from the music to be performed. The BSO also offers talks before each of the season’s four Thursday-morning Open Rehearsals at Symphony Hall. These take place from 9:30-10 a.m. The Symphony Hall doors open at 9 a.m., and the Open Rehearsal itself begins at 10:30 a.m. Admission to the Friday Preview Talks and Open Rehearsal Talks is free of charge to ticket holders for the Friday-afternoon subscription concerts and Thursday-morning Open Rehearsals.
