Hosted by Sean Rafferty, Into the forest, In Tune, Pleasant Valley edition, will also feature segments on the natural history of forests and the intersection of forests, music, and the arts, with special interviews with Boston Symphony Orchestra Artistic Administrator and Director of Tanglewood, Anthony Fogg. Mass Audubon’s President, Gary Clayton, Berkshire Sanctuaries Director, Becky Cushing, and Mass Audubon scientist, Tom Lautzenheiser. Berkshire-based writers and artists will provide additional commentary about the relationship between the arts and nature, with the environmental sounds of Pleasant Valley providing a special auditory backdrop to this unique and multi-faceted program.

The October 19 edition of BBC Radio 3’s Into the Forest, In Tune is the finale of a week-long residency for
In Tune, which celebrated great American musicians amongst the autumn forests of New England, alongside the BBC Radio 2’s Autumnwatch, looking at the magical influence of the woods on music and the arts.
