English violinist and conductor Andrew Manze—who is currently principal conductor of Hanover’s NDR Radiophilharmonie and achieved acclaim leading the early music ensembles the Academy of Ancient Music and the English Concert—makes his BSO debut with three performances Thursday, April 18 through Saturday, April 20. At the heart of the program is Mozart’s Piano Concerto No. 19 in F, K.459, with Swiss pianist Francesco Piemontesi, also making his BSO debut, as soloist. Opening the concerts is 20th-century Polish composer Grażyna Bacewicz’s Concerto for String Orchestra (1949)—the first work of hers to be performed by the BSO. Mendelssohn’s stately, hymn-imbued Symphony No. 5, Reformation, was composed in honor of the 300th anniversary of the Presentation of the Augsburg Confession, a foundational document of Lutheranism. The BSO will play the Reformation in its rarely-heard original 1830 version.
PROGRAM DETAILS
Grażyna Bacewicz was one of Poland's most important composers of the mid-20th century, and one of very few women with an international reputation in that era. Her dynamic and soulful Concerto for String Orchestra was composed in 1948 and won the Polish State Prize in 1950. An energetic and elegant work of neoclassicism that incorporates elements of both Baroque and Classical style, it bears out its “concerto” label both by the virtuosic demands it makes of the entire orchestra and by frequently including sections which pit a single instrument or a small group of instruments against the larger ensemble.

A somewhat rarely performed member of Mozart’s towering collection of piano concertos, the vivacious No. 19 in F, K.459, hasn’t been performed by the BSO in Symphony Hall since 1994. It combines lighthearted playfulness with statelier portions that helped make it a suitable choice when Mozart performed at a concert in 1790 marking the coronation of Holy Roman Emperor Leopold II. Particularly remarkable is the third movement, which shows off the composer’s dazzling mastery of counterpoint, thematic development, instrumental timbre, and formal structures yet sounds charmingly spontaneous and carefree.

Mendelssohn completed the original version of his Reformation symphony in 1830, at about the same time as his first sketches for the Scottish and Italian symphonies. But as with those works, he revised it extensively at a later date. The Reformation symphony wasn’t published until 1868, more than two decades after his death. He wrote the piece for festivities marking the 300th anniversary of the presentation of the Augsburg Confession, a philosophical pillar of the Lutheran Church, and Mendelssohn based the finale on one of Luther’s most famous hymns, “Ein feste Burg ist unser Gott” (“A Mighty Fortress Is Our God”). Andrew Manze is a champion of the original version of the piece, which the BSO is performing for these concerts. Among other differences, it includes an extended flute recitative omitted from the revised score.

Educational Initiatives at Symphony Hall

As part of the BSO’s ongoing initiative to enhance its patrons’ awareness and knowledge of the music being performed, the Boston Symphony Orchestra continues to offer a variety of adult education initiatives at Symphony Hall for the 2018-19 season.

This season will continue the popular “Casual Fridays” program, which encourages both patrons and the orchestra to come dressed in comfortable clothing. The four evening “Casual Friday” concerts on November 2, February 22, January 11, and April 12 will feature both a pre-concert reception and post-concert reception with live music until midnight. Each evening also features special Conductor Cam seating, which allows patrons to watch the conductor from the orchestra’s perspective on high-definition screens. During the 2018-19 season, the BSO will continue to collaborate with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) to offer concert attendees sitting in the Conductor Cam seats access to ConcertCue, an innovative app that presents contextual program notes and images on concert-goers’ mobile devices in real-time during the musical performance.

BSO 101 returns in 2018-19, again offering the opportunity to increase your enjoyment of BSO concerts. These free Wednesday sessions with BSO Director of Program Publications Marc Mandel and Associate Director of Program Publications Robert Kirzinger, joined by members of the BSO, are designed to enhance the audiences listening abilities and appreciation of music by focusing on upcoming BSO repertoire. These sessions take place from 5:30-7 p.m. at Symphony Hall; in addition, each session is followed by a free half-hour tour of Symphony Hall. Dates and more information will be provided in patron subscription packages and at bso.org in the fall. RSVPs for the BSO 101 sessions will not be accepted until the fall. Full details of the 2018-19 “BSO 101” schedule will be announced at a later date.

The popular Friday Preview Talks continue to take place from 12:15-12:45 p.m. before each Friday-afternoon subscription concert; the Symphony Hall doors open at 11:30 a.m. Given by BSO Director of Program Publications Marc Mandel, Associate Director of Program Publications Robert Kirzinger, and occasional guest speakers, these informative half-hour talks incorporate recorded examples from the music to be performed. The BSO also offers talks before each of the season’s four Thursday-morning Open Rehearsals at Symphony Hall. These take place from 9:30-10 a.m. The Symphony Hall doors open at 9 a.m., and the Open Rehearsal itself begins at 10:30 a.m. Admission to the Friday Preview Talks and Open Rehearsal Talks is free of charge to ticket holders for the Friday-afternoon subscription concerts and Thursday-morning Open Rehearsals.

Food Services at Symphony Hall
The Boston Symphony Orchestra’s catering partner, Boston Gourmet, offers a fresh perspective on the food and beverage options offered at Symphony Hall before concerts, during intermission, and in the popular Symphony Café and Prelude Restaurant. Patrons enjoy the convenience of pre-concert dining at the Café and Prelude in the unique ambiance of historic Symphony Hall. Symphony Café offers buffet-style dinner from 5:30 p.m. until concert time for all evening Boston Symphony concerts. In addition, Symphony Café will be open for lunch at 11 a.m. prior to Friday-afternoon concerts. Prelude, the BSO’s newest dining experience, offers a delicious three-course prix fixe menu with elegant entrees and sensational flavors. Tables are available by reservation only, exclusively during Symphony season. The Café and Prelude are both located in Higginson Hall; near the Cohen Wing entrance on Huntington Avenue. Please call 617-638-9328 for reservations.

Additionally, casual pre-concert and intermission dining, including sandwiches, light appetizers, and desserts, is available at the snack bar outside the O’Block/Kay Room and Cabot-Cahners Room. Drink coupons, light appetizers, entrees, desserts, and packages that features an appetizer and half-bottle of wine can also be ordered on the BSO’s website at www.bso.org/dining. On the night of the concert, all pre-orders can be picked up at the Cabot-Cahners Room.

There are two lounges in Symphony Hall. The O’Block/Kay Room on the orchestra level and Cabot-Cahners Room on the first balcony level serve drinks starting one hour prior to each performance. For the Friday afternoon concerts, both rooms open at 11:00 a.m., with sandwiches available until concert time. Drink coupons may be purchased in advance online or through SymphonyCharge for all performances.

Symphony Hall Shop and Tours
The Symphony Shop, located in the Cohen Wing on Huntington Avenue, is open Thursdays and Saturdays from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m., and from one hour before concert time through intermission. A satellite shop, located on the first-balcony level, is open during concerts through intermission. Merchandise may also be purchased by visiting the BSO website at www.bso.org/shop. The shop can be reached at 617-638-9383.
