WELCOME TO TANGLEWOOD

Bring the magic and history of Tanglewood to your next event.

Tanglewood has been the summer home of the Boston Symphony Orchestra since 1937. Comprising more than 400 acres of landscaped grounds, formal gardens, and rolling meadows in the towns of Lenox and Stockbridge, Tanglewood was once the country estate of Boston banker William Aspinwall Tappan. The Property, including the Main House that is still in use today, was given to the Boston Symphony Orchestra by Tappan’s daughter, Mary, and her niece Mrs. Gorham Brooks. Although Tanglewood welcomes more than 300,000 visitors each year, its beauty and tranquility remain unchanged.

Our numerous event spaces offer a variety of capacities and atmospheres. For more information or booking requests, please visit tanglewood.org/events or contact Events Services at 617-638-9240.
SERANAK

Seranak offers a magnificent setting for the varied artistic and social gatherings that support the vibrant life of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Offering magnificent views of Lake Mahkeenac (Stockbridge Bowl), Seranak was built in 1913 and sits on 170 acres. After leading the BSO’s first concerts in the Berkshires some three years earlier, Serge Koussevitzky purchased the property in 1939 and, in 1940, founded the Berkshire Music Center (now the Tanglewood Music Center). Today, Seranak remains much the same as when the Koussevitzkys resided here. In the music room, there is a life-sized portrait of Koussevitzky playing the double bass, the instrument on which he was a virtuoso prior to his conducting days. His study abounds with historic photographs and letters along with a plaster cast of his left hand positioned to play the double bass.

Highwood, one of the earliest of the famous Berkshire estates, includes a twenty-room manor house built in 1846 with breathtaking views of the Stockbridge Bowl. The BSO acquired the 120 acres of Highwood in 1987. Under a master plan designed by the firm of Carr, Lynch, Hack & Sandell, the Highwood and Tanglewood estates were combined into a single entity. Highwood Manor is now used to serve dinner on Friday and Saturday, and brunch on Sunday during the Tanglewood season. It is also available for private functions seasonally. The Manor House itself can accommodate up to 150 people, with the option of renting an outdoor tent to increase capacity to 450 people.

It is now used to serve dinner Friday–Saturday, and brunch on Sunday, during the Tanglewood season, and is also available for private functions throughout the year. The views of the Stockbridge Bowl are breathtaking. The Manor House itself can accommodate up to 150 people, with the option of renting an outdoor tent to increase capacity to 450 people.
